Meeting over new Broderick plan stirs controversy

■ Residents of West Sacramento's 'Washington' portion of the Broderick neighborhood are suspicious of new city plan

By Steve Marschke

City staff members had to face a skeptical and hostile group of citizens Thursday evening as they attempted to kick off the new "Washington Specific Plan" they hope will guide development in part of West Sacramento's Broderick neighborhood.

Terry Roberts, a senior planner with the West Sacramento Community Development Department, said about 50 people signed in at the meeting, and many feared that the new plan would eventually cost them their homes.

"The purpose of the meeting was to talk with residents and get their ideas to form a plan," said Roberts. "Many people came to the meeting with the idea that the city was coming in with an idea that would throw them out of their homes."

Roberts said the new plan would cover an area bounded by the Sacramento River to the east, 6th and 8th streets to the west, A St. to the north, and West Capitol Ave. to the south. It would expand on plans already made for the area through the city general plan, which includes a riverfront "mixed use" area and inland residential

State gives Sacto the nod for Cal EPA site

■ State has confirmed its decision to award new EPA headquarters to Sacramento's "Lot B," but West Sacramento still has some questions on the scoring process

By Steve Marschke

The California Department of General Services announced Sept. 17 that it will go ahead with its original choice of a Sacramento site for the proposed, 850,000 square foot California Environmental Protection Agency -- despite protests from competing bidders, including West Sacramento.

But Val Toppenberg of the West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency said his city still isn't completely satisfy with the judging practice used by state officials to pick the site.

The first time around, the state judged a bid from West Sacramento's Lighthouse Marina to be the third-best among its choices, but, upon re-evaluating, it has now scored the riverfront site as its second choice.

"Lot B scored 140 points in the judging process," said Toppenberg, "and Lighthouse is only around 3.7 points behind. We have raised some questions about some of the numbers and they are in the process of looking at them."

The Lighthouse proposal for the office complex was judged by insiders as remarkably cost-effective, but Sacramento officials have criticized the idea of placing any of the state's headquarters out "in the suburbs."

Proximity to mass transit and to other state buildings are among the factors judged in the scoring process.

Lighthouse Marina is located along the Sacramento Riverfront in northeastern West Sacramento.

The state held its bidding process to determine a new site for the California EPA project at the same time it accepted bids for a Department of Health Services site. But financial issues have moved the DHS building to the back burner.

West Sac may look at sending wastes to Sac

■ West Sacramento may perform a study to determine if it is feasible to pay Sacramento County to treat West Sacramento's sewage

By Steve Marschke

The West Sacramento City Council will vote Oct. 5 on whether to fund a study that may make the city sewage plant obsolete: city officials are now interested in exploring the notion of whether to pay the County of Sacramento to treat West Sacramento's sewage.

There are two main reasons for the interest.

For one, West Sacramento has had a history of problems running its own treatment plant. The city's waste stream mix has a heavy component of industrial wastes, which is prone to toxic substances that make it difficult to treat. It also has an obsolete plant and -- arguably -- problems with the personnel running that plant.

Another factor is the city's desire to bring the MacMillan Bloedel/Haindl Papier newspaper recycling plant on line. The plant would depend on West Sacramento to treat its liquid wastes. West Sacramento is

Southport crash claims three lives

By Steve Marschke

Three people are dead and four remain hospitalized after West Sacramento's worst traffic accident in at least seven years occurred Thursday night at the intersection of Jefferson Blvd. and Linden Rd. in the city's "Southport" neighborhood.

Two pickup trucks collided at the scene at about 10 p.m. Thursday evening, and although many witnesses and residents believe alcohol was a factor in the tragedy, police investigators have not finished piecing together what happened.

Killed on the scene was 41-year old Robert William North, who was reportedly thrown from his vehicle by the impact. Seven other people, including two children, were taken to the UC Davis Medical Center by helicopter and ambulance. One child has since been released from the hospital.

North's wife, Sandra, 44, and Timothy Crumrine of West Sacramento, 19, were pronounced dead later that evening at the hospital.

Lt. Ron Moore of the West Sacramento Police said that Sandra and Robert North had no permanent address listed at the time of the accident, but had been staying in various places in the Sacramento/West Sacramento area.

Makeshift shrine for accident victims, erected last week near Jefferson and Linden.

Crumrine was a resident of Pecan St. in West Sacramento, said a police spokesman.

According to some reports, the accident occurred when the Toyota pickup containing Crumrine and James Smith were apparently travelling northbound on Jefferson Blvd., when it made a left turn onto Linden Rd. and struck the older, Chevrolet pickup with a camper shell, in which the Norths and other victims were travelling.

The Chevrolet was thrown on its side, and slid over a small grass hill into a retaining wall bordering the Touchstone apartments.

But details are still sketchy, partly because the passengers are injured and witnesses have given conflicting reports. Police are unsure whether Crumrine or Smith was driving the Toyota, and whether one of the vehicles may have been travelling on Linden Rd.

"It appears the Chevy pickup was southbound," said Lt. Moore. "We're trying to determine whether the smaller pickup was perhaps on Linden Rd. We're still checking blood alcohol levels to see if alcohol is a factor."

Moore said it is also unclear where the two children in the Chevrolet pickup were riding -- in the front, or in the back underneath the camper shell.

The accident left some witnesses and nearby residents shaken.

Port Fest '94

The attendance figures and profit-and-loss numbers are not yet available for Port Fest '94, the public event staged last weekend at the Port of Sacramento by the Port, West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and other sponsors.

But Chamber Director Steve Roberts reports that the second annual event was once again a success "as an event," even if it does not appear to have turned a large profit.

Included in the festival were informational booths, rides and attractions, ship tours, food vendors, and other kinds of fun and entertainment, availed upon by thousands of visitors to the Port's West Sacramento facility.

Adventures with 'Fang,' the car-eating dog

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

By Daryl Fisher

A few months ago, I decided to drop off one of my favorite books for a friend to read. As I pulled into her driveway, I couldn't help but notice that the house itself was being guarded by a huge, obviously over-protective dog who looked to be a mix between a skinny-legged Great Dane and a dull-colored palomino pony. As the barking animal, who appeared to be foaming from the mouth--although I later learned that he always looks that way--began to lope towards my truck, I put on my brakes and quickly checked to make sure my window was tightly rolled up.

"Nice doggie," I said, cracking the window just enough to make sure his massive head couldn't get inside the car. "Now go away before I run over you," I added under my breath.

The dog--who we'll call Fang--growled and barked even louder, energetically slimed the side of my just washed truck for a few minutes, and then decided to turn his attention to my front left tire. I rolled my window down far enough to see exactly what he was up to, and sure enough, he seemed to be intent on eating my tire. Positive that no dog--not even one the size of Fang--could actually harm a Firestone 225/70R14 truck tire, I put the car in gear and carefully began to make my way to where another vehicle was parked. That's actually kind of cute, I thought to myself as I looked out my window and watched Fang--who apparently wasn't very bright--continue to try to take a bite out of my slowly rolling tire.

"Stop that!" yelled my friend at her dog as she stepped off her porch and began to make her way towards my truck. "He's never done that before," she assured me as she grabbed a handful of Fang's ample neck skin and yanked him away from my tire. "Now sit--and behave yourself," she ordered the suddenly meek dog. "Daryl's going to think you don't have any manners at all."

"Oh, he didn't hurt anything," I said as I waved hello and worked up the courage to get out of the truck.

"What's that funny noise I hear?" she asked me, looking all around.

We both strained our ears for a few seconds and then at the exact same moment realized that what we were hearing was the unmistakable whistling sound of air escaping from a punctured tire.

"I'm so sorry," she apologized as we both examined the dozen or so deep puncture wounds in my tire. "I'll call Triple A--they can be out here in about twenty minutes."

"Are you kidding?" I asked with a manly chuckle. "I can fix it."

"But I read your newspaper column all the time," she said reluctantly, "and aren't you--well, you know--not very mechanical?"

"Oh, I exaggerate all that stuff," I assured her, waving away her concerns with my hand. "Any guy can fix a tire."

About thirty minutes later, after I had--in this order--finally found the right key to open the lock on my spare tire; figured out how to make the jack that came with the truck actually work; given myself a hernia loosening the lug nuts; unsuccessfully attempted to jack up my front door instead of the axle connected to my tire; and silently cussed out the idiots in Detroit who decided to hide and secure spare tires underneath trucks in such a way that no mortal man can get them out, my friend bent down next to me and very politely asked, "Do you happen to have a driver's manual?"

"It's in the glove box," I finally said as Fang plopped down beside me on the dusty driveway and began drooling all over one of my shoes.

"Okay," said my friend cheerfully. "Here it is--page 190--how to change your Ford Ranger tire."

"What's it say?" I mumbled as I swallowed my pride and attempted to swat away another dozen or so of the killer mosquitoes who had taken up residence on my perspiring body.

"This is going to be real easy," she announced with a confident smile. "The steps are numbered--so here we go--step number one--finding your Ford Ranger spare tire."

"I've done that," I snapped.

"Okay, number two--remove bolt with lug wrench--then swing hinge away and lower the channel--remove retaining bolt by inserting the lug wrench through the top of the bolt and turning. Then to replace the tire, reverse procedure and install tire with the valve stem pointed down. Tighten the retaining bolt snugly and test for tire movement by pressing or kicking. Now, have you done any of that?"

"Yeah, I've done the kicking part," I said.

"Here," she said, obviously taking pity on me and lowering her voice as she often does when she's talking to one of her children, "I think I know what they're talking about. I tell you what--why don't you hold the manual--which is--you know--really the important part anyway--and let me get down under there for awhile and see if I can get the tire out?"

Another twenty or so humiliating minutes later, with my tire finally fixed and Fang in tow, I stepped back into my truck, knowing full-well that I'd still be sprawled out on the pavement if it hadn't been for my friend's help. "Thanks for dropping by the book," she said, forcing back a smile by putting a grease-covered hand over her mouth.

"Real funny," I said as the laughter she had been choking down for almost an hour finally exploded. "And don't you dare tell anyone about this!" I yelled after her as she and Fang--who seemed to be having a pretty good doggie chuckle himself--turned and raced back towards their house.

River City varsity loses a 23-22 squeaker to Vanden High School

By Chuck Robinson

The River City football defense continues to hold opponents to short yardage rushing.

The Raiders rushed for 262 yards Friday and held Vanden to only 148 yards last week. River City passed for 28 yards, while Vanden passed for 104.

What broke the Raiders' backs was an 80-yard kickoff return by Vanden, winning the game for Vanden 23-22.

In the first play of the game, River City's Paul Barber broke through and ran over tacklers for a 76-yard run, to set up the first score. Barber scored from one yard out, and Peter Santizo kicked the extra point, for a 7-0 Raider lead.

Vanden scored on a 17-yard run to make it 7-6.

In the second quarter, VAnden scored on a 26-yard run and kicked the point, to take the lead 13-7.

River City's Alex Victor broke for a 43-yard run to set up a 14-yard touchdown run also by Victor, and Santioz kicked the extra point, making it 14-13, Raiders.

Vanden kicked a 21-yard field goal to take the lead 16-14 at half-time.

Early in the fourth quarter, Justin Hanks of River City, on a quarterback keep, scored from four yards out and then ran the conversion to help the Raiders to a 22-16 lead. River City kicked off, and Vanden ran it back 80 yards to tie the score, taking the lead on the conversion 23-22 and winning the game.

RCHS rushing was led by Paul Barber with 144 yards; Alex Victor, 84 yards; Justin Hanks, 16 yards; Josh Castro, 12 yards; and John Phoutachack 5 yards.

RCHS defense was led by John Phoutachack with 7 tackles, 6 assists and one sack; Joe Flores, 7 tackles, 5 assists; Angel Cardenas, 6 tackles, 5 assists; Paul Barber, 5 tackles, 2 assists; and Terry Warford, 2 tackles, 3 assists and one sack.

J.V.s lose to Vanden

The River City junior varsity football team played hard, but could not stop the tough Vanden squad last week. So they will go back to hard practices and get ready for the first new league game this Friday at home against Lincoln, in the Golden Empire League.

River City's Nathan Rocha started the scoring last Friday against Vanden with a quarterback sack in the end zone for two points.

River City scored next on a one-yard run by Ying Saelee, to lead 8-0.

Vanden then scored on a kick-off return of 75 yards, and made the conversion to tie the game 8-8. At the end of the first half, it was 16-8, Vanden.

In the fourth quarter, Vanden scored again, making it 22-8, and again on a 58-yard run to lead 30-8.

River City answered on a seven-yard run by Zakie Qadiri to trail 30-14, and with one second left, Vanden scored to end the game 36-14.

Rushing for River City was Ying Saelee, with 95 yards; Zakie Qadiri, 44 yards; V.P. Phoutachack, 1 yard; and Nathan Rocha, 1 yard.

Defense for RCHS was led by Carlos Martinez with 5 tackles, 4 assists, 2 sacks; Nathan Rocha, 2 tackles, 1 assist, 2 sacks, 1 safety; Abel Raymundo, 4 tackles, 2 assists, 1 fumble recovery; and Augie Correia, 2 tackles, 1 sack.

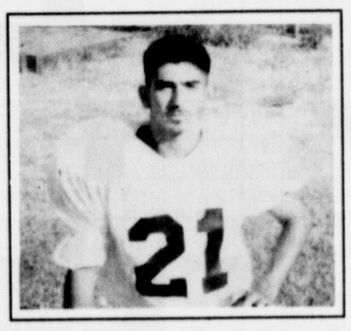

River City made 6 quarterback sacks in the game.

This Friday, River City will be home in its first league game against Lincoln. J.V. time is 5:30 p.m.; varsity starts at 7:45 p.m.

Players of the Week:

Offense: #34, Paul Barber, who had 18 carries for 144 yards (an 8.0 average) and one TD.

Defense: #21, Angel Cardenas, with 6 tackles and 6 assists.

The Sports Insider

The 49ers must have written the script for last Sunday's 24-13 victory over the New Orleans Saints (1-3). The score was 17-13, and with 2:03 left, the Saints were marching in for the winning touchdown. The Saints' QB, Jim Everett, through to the end zone for an apparent TD, but 49ers free safety Merton Hanks made a game-saving, diving interception that sent a roar through the crowd of 63,971.

But the 49ers couldn't move the ball from their own 20-yard line and were forced to punt.

The Saints were again knocking on the door for another chance at a game winning touchdown. With the game on the line and 30 seconds to play, Deion "Prime Time" Sanders intercepted a Jim Everett pass and high-stepped 74 yards to a touchdown.

The 49er defense played very well, allowing the Saints only 49 yards rushing, but the 49ers' offensive line continues to have big problems. Steve Young was sacked five times and was hurried into some bad throws. Young completed 25 of 39 passes for 247 yards and two touchdowns, but had two passes intercepted.

The 49ers are at home next week against the Philadelphia Eagles and are eight-point favorites.

Just when the Sacramento Gold Miners (5-6-1) started playing good football and attendance for the last game was 17,000-plus, they suffered a major setback on offense. Quarterback Dave Archer dislocated his right thumb and will require surgery to repair the damage. Starting fullback Troy Mills (broken ribs) and reserve QB Kerwin Bell also were injured in the Gold Miners' 39-25 loss to the Calgary Stampeders Friday.

The race for the fourth and final playoff spot in the Western Division will take place on Friday, in Saskatchewan (7-5), which is in fourth place, three points ahead of the Gold Miners.

Tony "The Tiger" Lopez has been offered a championship fight by boxing promoter Don King to meet the WBC super-lightweight champion Julio Cesar Chavez. Lopez's attorney-agent, John Virga, has received an offer for $330,000 plus $20,000 in training expenses to fight on December 10 in Las Vegas. Lopez, whi is 45-4-1 with 32 KOs, believes he can beat Chavez, who is 91-1-1 with 78 knockouts.

In his last fight, Lopez knocked out Greg Haugen in the tenth round last June at the MGM in Las Vegas.

I think Lopez has a very good chance of beating Chavez, which would bring Tony an opportunity at a million-dollar payday!

See ya next week!!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Driving while drunk is tolerated less than ever

Attitudes can change.

One example of that is America's views of smoking. Just a few decades ago, smoking was still glamorous and anyone who complained about second-hand cigarette smoke was looked upon as something of an eccentric.

Health research and lobbying by health interests have helped to change that, to the point where some smokers themselves are finding themselves as social outcasts when they light up in public.

Another example is drunk driving.

When the founders of M.A.D.D. (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) started up their campaign years ago, they were regarded as something near the lunatic fringe. Americans tended to think that driving drunk was a quaint, if somewhat risky, habit.

Look at the television shows from a few decades ago: in sitcoms of the '60s, drunk drivers were always good for a laugh, harmlessly wrapping a car around a telephone pole and then explaining to the "ossifer" how the telephone pole jumped into the middle of the road. All the while, the laugh track rolled on.

Thanks in part to M.A.D.D., that kind of social tolerance for drunk driving has waned. Driving while drunk is now regarded as dangerous and irresponsible. The courts have cracked down somewhat, and fewer people are getting killed by drunks behind a wheel. The entire public attitude has changed.

Last week, West Sacramento experienced a horrible traffic accident. Three people were killed.

It is suspected, but not proven, that a driver under the influence was at fault.

The next morning, a small "shrine" was at the scene, erected at the intersection of Jefferson Blvd. and Linden Rd. where the accident took out part of a brick retaining wall. A neighborhood man had placed a large sign announcing that three people had been killed on that spot, and that the accident had been caused by a drunk driver.

It is safe to assume that the area residents all have the same reaction to the crash and to their belief that was caused by drunk driving.

It was a tragedy. It was avoidable. And, if it was caused by a reckless decision to drive while drunk, it was reprehensible.

'No' on land tax: time to 'cut our losses,' says resident

By Patricia Stratfull

Do the taxpayers of West Sacramento really NEED the Port of Sacramento? Think about it. The Port has (per recent newspaper reports) shown a profit only seven times in the past thirty years. What business showing such little profit would still be operating?

Some background information may be helpful. In 1911, the first of many studies was done on the proposed channel. In 1946, Congress authorized construction. As a result of a referendum in 1947, the Sacramento-Yolo Port District was created. Construction was begun in 1949. It was not until 1963 that the port was completed. The first ship, Taipei Victory, sailed into port on June 29, 1963. As time went on (sometime around 1967) and ships became larger and larger the necessity to deepen the channel became quite apparent. Ships could not navigate the channel fully loaded. Cargoes had to be "topped-off" at other ports. Funding for the project was very slow in coming. The Port had to compete with others for what turned out to be a very limited allocation of federal money. The deepening project was finally authorized in 1986. It was expected that the newly deepened channel would be in use in 1994. Complications have kept that from happening. The taxpayers are now facing the possibility of another tax burden to pay for the deepening to accommodate the world's fleets.

Is it in the best interests of West Sacramento to support the Port? I think not. The Port has brought near economic disaster to our area. The barge canal cross channel has ruined the economic life of our city. Before it was dug there were four lanes of traffic connecting north and south. For the last thirty-five or more years there have been only two. Thirty-five years ago it was not bad...you knew everyone on the road and gave a "Hi" sign. Things started to change in 1972 when the Fredricks-Southport project for developing 361 acres (original Touchstone development) came before the Yolo Planning Commission. The EIR's negative impacts -- page 28 -- states: "1. Increases the traffic load on the two-lane state highway (Jefferson Blvd.) and advances the time when the bascule bridge will reach its capacity limit." That total development was to consist of 3080 dwelling units, creating a traffic volume of 17,514 vehicles per day. That volume has long ago been exceeded. Traffic during rush hours is bumper-to-bumper from the freeway to past Linden Road.

Because Southport is impacted by the need for many more lanes of traffic the City cannot grow. The hundreds of acres of industrial and commercial land cannot be developed and put into profitable use nor the needed homes built and occupied. If the city cannot expand into the open spaces of Southport our economic base will not grow. If the barge canal was not in place (literally cutting the city in half) there would be no hinderance to progress. Fill it. Put in pipes to maintain the flushing action needed in the harbor and to accommodate excess winter runoff from the river. Then watch this city grow.

Another reason we taxpayers of West Sacramento have for withdrawing support from the Port is the fact that ALL Port lands north and south of the harbor and channel is off of the city's tax rolls...hundreds of acres. Pretty nice for Sacramento City and County. They have little actual land in the district. Do they compensate us for our loss? I have never heard that they do.

Years ago I learned not to put good money into failing stocks. It is time to get out from under the burden of the (Port) bad investment. Take our losses. Move ahead. Bring our young and struggling city out of the poor economic state it is in. We could and will have a bright future.

River cleanup

On Saturday, September 17, my husband and I participated in a volunteer effort through the California Toxics campaign to clean up a short stretch of the west bank of the Sacramento River on South River Road at Garcia Bend. I was pleased to see Mike McGowan taking time from his busy senate campaign to participate in this barely publicized event at which there were probably no more than five Yolo County registered voters. The majority of the volunteers was a delightful group of high school students.

Although I cannot understand why anyone would choose to litter, some of the refuse collected was not surprising. There was the expected array of cans, bottles, fast food containers, etc. However, I was appalled at the evidence of illegal and wanton roadside dumping taking place. In the course of two hours, we discovered sites containing discarded sofas, an automobile rear suspension, the carcasses of large white birds and small cattle stuffed into plastic bags. We were assured that county health officials would be notified of the carcasses. More than one hundred discarded tires were collected. One site, approximately a quarter mile south of Babel Slough Road, proved to be beyond the abilities of the small but enthusiastic volunteer group. Consumers pay a disposal fee to tire dealers when they turn in old tires. Apparently, some dealers are contracting with individuals who are illegally dumping these tires along the river, creating an eyesore and potentially polluting the water.

It is my hope that officials will address this particular site and remove the waste. I encourage the public to always inquire exactly how dealers dispose of tires and to report any illegal dumping they might observe. If this two-mile stretch of riverbank contains so much refuse, it is sobering to consider what more remote segments hold.

Kudos!

How about hearing some positive things that are going on in our city?

Like Betty Rhoades, who worked at the Broderick Christian Center for many years in information and referrals, but is now employed at the Senior Center. She has always gone out of her way to help the seniors with any problems they may have. If there is an answer to be found, she will find it one way or another. She has spent countless hours helping others and it all comes from her heart. Bless you, Betty.

Then there is the Chief Auto Parts store at West Capitol Ave. and Jefferson Blvd., where the seniors can go on Wednesday mornings and have someone check their car for any type of fluid it may need and take care of it for them.

Many of the seniors can't even lift the hood of their car and have no family to help them. Well, at Chief Auto Parts, they go out of their way to help and make the seniors feel like part of their family, especially employee Raymond Ortega.

Then there is Exxon Gas Station (across from Chief's), that will put gas in their cars every Friday. This is real community commitment.

Also, there is Carol's Restaurant, which gives the seniors a discount on their breakfasts and lunches. But good news -- starting in November, they will be giving a senior discount dinner. The seniors are so happy about this, as it is one of their favorite places to go. The portions are bountiful at reasonable rates.

THE YOLO INDEPENDENT FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1921.

LOCAL ITEMS

The Sacramento river registered 3 feet 10 inches, U. S. guage at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

Last Wednesday evening a traveling derrick owned by the Coast Construction Company, that had been at work in Sacramento on the Filtration System, crossed the Southern Pacific bridge to be loaded on a barge at this side of the river because no available place was found at the Sacramento side for such loading. The great width of the derrick with caterpillar propellers, effectually blocked traffic on the bridge and especially on the Yolo incline, because the ponderous machine was not equipped with brakes. At this hour of the day machines of this kind should not attempt to negotiate to cross because workingmen are on their way home and many travelers are just leaving Sacramento or getting into the town. At any rate the derrick caused a blockade that lasted for more than half an hour and was a great disadvantage to many people.

Contrary to the expectations of many local people, Jack Bennetts, the popular postmaster of Washington, failed to go hunting last Sunday, and as a consequence many friends are mourning the mess of ducks that had been promised them. Bennetts promises that in the near future he will make good more than twofold.

Putzman's auto supplies are back to old prices. 1015 J street.

Muchy Mathena is mourning over the loss of a broken axle which his Jeffries car suffered last Tuesday, but he is mourning more over his injured pride that has been stabbed in the back by the jibes of many friends who had repeatedly listened to him expounding the merits of his automobile. He thinks he is not going to have it fixed and may become reckless enough to invest in a real car very soon.

William Parks has been down from La Moine during the past week and has been making his home with the Lear family, which has been his usual retreat during many winters in the past. Next Sunday he expects to go to Stockton to spend a few days with friends.

Last Monday Constable Buckingham took Jesse Gallup to the Yolo County hospital suffering with a severe case of gangrene that set in after paring a corn on his right foot. He had doctored the corn with patent medicine after paring and then failed to take care of the member. No hope was expressed by the hospital physician for his recovery because the poison had reached far above the knee and had even infected the hip joint. The old gentleman has been a resident around Washington for many years, making his living by gathering junk and selling it to dealers.

Putzman repairs all models of bicycles. 1015 J street.

Last Wednesday J. Rossetti swore to a complaint against Tony Bartoli on the charge of having threatened him with a deadly weapon. Rossetti claimed that the trouble started when Bartoli came home from Sacramento with an overdose of jackass and threatened to paint the town red. When the gun was pointed at him he knocked it out of Bartoli's hand and ran for his life. He now claims that Bartoli is liable to do the same thing again, when he gets another jag on and doesn't want to be in the way of any such weapon.

Complaint has been sworn out by Gertrude Miller against her husband, E. E. Miller, whom she claims has abandoned her, leaving her to provide for herself and make her own living, although she is his wife. The couple live in West Sacramento and have been residents of that section for only a short time.

Tug Wilson has been the hardest working man in Washington during the past few days. The only exception is Ed. Van Olinda, who is painting a house, or rather several houses, for Fred Hauser. But Wilson is building a porch on the Ramsey home for Constable Buckingham, and being forced to do it alone must use not only brains but muscle at the same time. This is too hard for Tug, but he does his best and that's saying a whole lot.

The victim of wood alcohol who was taken to Woodland last week and who had been found in the jungles of West Sacramento, died after a short period of consciousness in the county hospital. He gave his name as Kelly, but lapsed into unconsciousness and died before any further information could be secured from him. He is only one more example of the evil effects of National prohibition.

The dance given for the benefit of the Catholic church in Washington last Saturday night in the Town Hall was a wonderful success in a social as well as a financial way. Every number on the program was thoroughly enjoyed and the crowd was so great that many were turned away from the doors, while only standing room was available within the hall.

Mrs. J. I. Clifton has been in Oakland during the past few days visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Ella Muhm.

Judy Noyes is in the railroad hospital in San Francisco, where he is quite ill.

Mrs. Grace Smith of Washington is here visiting with her sister, Mrs. Sid Rickart.

Mrs. E. C. Reinersman spent last Tuesday in Woodland.

Mrs. C. T. Sweitzer entertained the members of the C. B. Club last Tuesday on a picnic in Georgetown Canyon. The club members motored to the canyon site and there had a picnic lunch. Those present were Mrs. F. L. White, Jr., Mrs. Erwin Engler, Mrs. E. Mathias, Mrs. Paul Greenwood and Miss Dorothy Sullivan.

Mrs. J. B. Spankling is in San Francisco, where her father is undergoing an operation on his eyes.

Mrs. A. B. Simmons is confined to her home on account of illness.

John Rodriguez, who for the past three months has been in the Army Hospital at San Francisco as a result of wounds sustained in action in France, is back home with his sister, Mrs. Minnie Gomez.

The Parent-Teacher Association is again holding regular sessions following the opening of school. The meeting last Thursday was an important one, although the teachers were in session at the Institute in Sacramento.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Community church met Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

Mrs. P. K. Graves and Bernie Robbins returned from Oakland last Monday, where they visited over the week-end. They left Mrs. B. Robbins visiting with friends there.

E. I. Hansen, A. Dassonville, F. L. White, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Davis were all in Woodland on jury duty last Tuesday.

F. W. Todhunter and family, Charles Fay and Mrs. Ruth Eddy left for a hunting trip last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Buckingham have returned to their home after a week's visit in San Francisco and Albany.

Mrs. Sarah Evans has returned to her home in Oakland after a visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jasper and son, Joe, have returned to their home in Wheatland after a visit with friends here.

Miss Elvira Georgt of San Francisco was here to spend the week-end with Miss Helen Dassonville.

POVERTY AND OLD AGE PROMPTED UNKNOWN TO SUICIDE

Aged, alone, without money or friends, and weary of life, an unknown man committed suicide last Monday by taking a dose of strychnine, a small bottle of which was found beside him. The remains were found in some brush at Rocky Point, outside the levee.

Deputy Coroner Ross C. Wilson was notified and took them to Woodland.

Beside the remains was found a pathetic farewell letter, written apparently by a man of limited education.

The letter follows:

"To whom it concerns:

Please throw me in the river or bury me. I am a old man without money or friends in the world; all alone and tired of living. Left Alpine in 1877, first of May; broken hart. Lost the woman that I loved in 1871. Hardle a day passes that I don't think of her. May meet her on the other sid or may not. Landed at Camanta 15 of May in 1877, what was called the Emigrant train that went down the river San Frisco. I have traveled Est North and South two find hapiness; none in this life, may not be en in the next.

Name unnoen; good bye 71, Novem 72 years old.

Tryed strong drink in 1877, since that only 3 drinks of liker; it will drown sorrow for the time bean."

The man was unknown in this locality and probably wandered across the bridge from Sacramento.

AMACKER HAS CONTRACT FOR LARGE FERRY

Bids for construction of the ferry to operate in Steamboat Slough, between Ryer and Grand Island were opened last Monday by the board of supervisors of Sacramento County at the regular meeting held in the board rooms.

Of the four bidders, Cass Amacker was the lowest by $25, and received the award from the board, on a bid of $3725.

Solano County board of supervisors were ordered notified, as it is to participate jointly in the contract.

Basil King, the novelist, is quoted as saying:

"We used to be a people strongly and nobly and masculinely tolerant. I don't find that any more. Good people who are so anxious to pass laws for our wellbeing are in too much of a hurry. They want to get us along faster than we can go."

SACRAMENTO-NORTHERN DEAL GIVEN FINAL O. K. BY RAILROAD COM.

The Western Pacific Railroad Company was authorized by the railroad commission to purchase the Sacramento Northern Railroad, including all its properties, rights and franchises, for a price of $4,450,000, based on the present market value of the securities involved in the transaction.

The sale had been protested by minority stockholders of the electric line, who in their statements before the commission questioned the financial transactions which features the negotiations.

Under the terms of sale the Western Pacific is to pay $730,000 in cash for the physical property and assume the payment of the outstanding bonds of the Sacramento Northern.

The Parent Western Pacific organization, the Western Pacific railroad corporation of Delaware, already has acquired 99½ per cent of the outstanding stock and 98½ per cent of the outstanding bonds of the Sacramento Northern, by exchanging them for Western Pacific sctock and bonds.

Lester J. Hinsdale, Western Pacific counsel, said last night that the matter of the acquisition of the physical properties now must go before the interstate commerce commission, and it is thought likely that action will not be had before that body for a month or six weeks.

SEDUCER'S THREATS PREVENT RANCHER FROM GOING HOME

Last Monday Constable Buckingham arrested J. V. Morris on a warrant sworn to by Albert Henry of the Lisbon district.

Henry swore to the warrant before Judge Harrison of Woodland, and declared that Morris was a dangerous man, ready to shoot under the least provocation.

Under these circumstances the Woodland constable deemed it wise to delegate Constable Buckingham to make the arrest.

Buckingham found Morris really tractable and placing him under arrest, took him to Woodland for trial.

He was placed under $1500 bonds, which he was unable to raise, and still languishes in jail.

From the statement made by Henry, it was gleaned that Morris was his employe but gradually managed to gain the affections of Mrs. Henry, who is the mother of six children. Henry advanced that Morris even threatened his life if he attempted to enter his home any more.

The condition of mind in which Mrs. Henry stands could not be ascertained, because she is an expectant mother and in no condition to stand any excitement.

Henry further testified that he believed Morris would take his life if he is not properly restrained by the authorities.

BLAIR MANCHESTER MAKES HIT AT T. & D.

During the past week Blair Manchester has been singing at the T. & D. Theatre in Sacramento as an added attraction to a big bill.

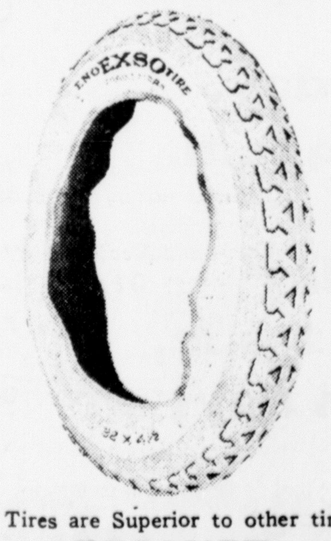

Needless to say he was well received and loudly applauded for his ecxellent rendition of popular songs.

His voice is considered a duplicate of that of John McCormack, and with practice may excell it.

The United National Clothiers' Association announced in Chicago the other day that from now on knee breeches will be in fashion for men as well as women.

Fire dept. honors five local kids for action

Five West Sacramento students have been awarded certificates of appreciation from the local fire department for "prompt and responsible action" in reporting a kitchen fire at a Madrone Ave. residence on Aug. 18.

By calling 9-1-1, the five helped the fire department prevent the fire from spreading "through the kitchen area and into the rest of the home," said a fire department spokesperson.

The certificates were awarded earlier this month at the students' schools, Westmore Oaks Elementary and Golden State Middle School.

Police log

Sept. 20, 4:30 p.m.

A vehicle matching the description of one spotted earlier, in which a subject had a rifle, was spotted. Officers contacted the driver. Whe the subject stepped out of the car, he was seen throwing an object onto the ground. The object was retrieved, and turned out to be a baggie with a tar-like substance in it that later tested positive for heroin.

Sept. 20, 5:35 p.m.

A shoplifter at a West Capitol Ave. grocery store was taken into custody. A syringe was found in the person's shirt pocket, and the subject was found to be on parole.

Sept. 25

Two men were seen fighting in the middle of the street on the 3200 block of West Capitol Ave. One was observed hitting and kicking the other. He then slammed the other person's head into the asphalt, twice, rendering him unconscious. He then charged the officers who responded, who used their batons on him before the subject surrendered.

planning to build a new sewage plant regardless of whether the "MacBlo" project goes in, but the new plant will have to be much larger to accommodate the paper plant.

By hiring Sacramento County to treat West Sacramento's wastes at its Elk Grove facility, West Sacramento could avoid having to build a new plant.

"The combination of the paper plant issue and some of the sewer problems has brought this about," said West Sacramento Mayor Cindy Tuttle. "It may turn out to be more costly, and it may turn out to be less expensive. We don't want to close down our options."

The Oct. 5 vote will be on whether to approve a $15,000-$20,000 study to review the Elk Grove option. Sacramento County officials have agreed to look at the proposal as long as West Sacramento foots the bill, and their Elk Grove treatment plant has ample capacity to treat the Yolo County city's wastes.

Mayor Tuttle was asked whether she felt she was under any pressure to solve the sewage problem quickly, in order not to lose the MacBlo project. The southern California town of Colton has opened negotiations with the paper plant backers, although MacBlo officials still say that West Sacramento is their first choice.

"Colton has other problems that MacMillan Bloedel would have to deal with," Tuttle commented. "Basically, MacMillan Bloedel has stated that Colton is not a big threat at this point. You're always going to have companies that use this kind of think as leverage."

She said she wouldn't compromise the city's interests in order to see the paper plant built.

"The city is going to use its best faith efforts to bring it here, as long as they meet our standards," Tuttle said.

David Zamora, Colton's Community Development Director, said city officials were "very positive" about the possibility of bringing the MacMillan Bloedel plant to their town.

he was among the first on the scene and tried to help the victims.

Sandy Kinney, a West Sacramento resident and one of the paramedics who responded to the accident, gave praise to the volunteers who stepped in to help out the victims in the street.

"I was so thankful to all the bystanders," she said. "They didn't get in our way, but did everything we asked them to do to help out. I was proud that these people were from my town."

Kinney said that the neighbors remained cooperative even though one of the victims was uncooperative and combative.

The morning after the accident, a home-made sign had been erected near the broken retaining wall, stating that three people had died at that location in an accident caused by a drunk driver. Scheppler said the sign had been placed by another nearby resident, 23-year old Brian Young.

Over the next few days, the sign accumulated flowers, candles, photos of the victims, poems and other messages. Some of the messages were from loved ones, and some were from strangers who wrote that they were touched and sorry for the loss of life in the accident.

Ironically, at least one resident has suggested that this sign has itself become a traffic hazard, since drivers on Linden and Jefferson are slowing to get a better look at it.

Patricia Earle, who lives in a residence adjoining the crash site, said she will not soon forget the sight of the dead and injured around the sidewalk and street.

"I have to say, as time goes by, I don't think about it as much," she commented. "You can still visualize the body of the man nearest the house. The blanket was on him, but his elbow was exposed. What a tragic waste."

Help adult literacy

Some of us take our reading skills for granted, but many adults in West Sacramento and other communities struggle daily to read simple signs or restaurant menus. By attending a ten-hour volunteer workshop scheduled for November with the Sacramento Library Literacy Service, you could help an adult learn to read. No experience needed. After attending the workshop you will be matched with a student. Tutors and new readers usually schedule meetings at times and locations convenient to both parties.

To enroll in a workshop or learn more about the literacy program, call 966-7323.

More workshops are scheduled for 1995.

Informational meeting on Health Security Act

An informational meeting on the California Health Security Act, Proposition 186 on the November ballot, will be held Monday, October 10, at 7 p.m. at the Arthur F. Tuner Branch Library in West Sacramento, 1212 Merkley Ave. A speaker from "Californians for Health Security" will explain the why, when, who and what of the initiative statute. (As an initiative statute, the details fo the act can be amended by the legislature so that the needs of Californian citiznes can be addressed as experience warrants).

Additional information about the act can be obtained from the Sacramento office, 1228 N Street, (916) 442-4474. A local committee is being formed as well as a Davis committee (371-8627). The public is invited to attend.

THEN and NOW!

Civic-Mindedness Runs In The Family

(NAPS)—Here's a look at how one family helped a major American city for generations:

Then: Back in 1912, the biggest civil engineering project of its kind in the world up to that time was completed: the Los Angeles Aqueduct, masterminded by Roderick MacKay, a young Scottish engineer.

Now: Today, LA benefits from more than a million dollars willed to the Los Angeles Unit of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children by MacKay's daughter, Christine. The hospital provides free care to children. A Philanthropic Society Gold Award plaque was presented to Christine MacKay's cousin, Don MacKay of Cambridge, England. He is managing director of a family engineering company and a past Provincial Grand Standard Bearer in British Masonry.

Don MacKay of Cambridge, England, receives a plaque commemorating his cousin's generosity to Los Angeles, California.

107-year old is regional resident of the year

By Marty Condos
Somerset Nursing Center

On Sept. 10, the T.A.S.C. Therapeutic Association arranged an old fashioned picnic for area nursing home centers at Sacramento City College. Ten nursing centers took advantage of this wonderful event.

Entertainment was provided from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for the residents. Music was from their era, so that the ones who were able to dance did so, and those that couldn't, clapped their hands and sang.

Somerset Nursing Center took 14 residents to the picnic. One of our residents, Claudia Hill, had been chosen "Resident of the Year for Sacramento and Yolo Counties." In June, she wore here crown and was presented with a plaque in her honor by the president of the T.A.S.C. at the Sacramento Hilton. She also received a watch and flowers.

CLAUDIA HILL

Claudia gave a short speech thanking everyone for electing her this year's resident of the year. She said she didn't deserve it, but she will, as always, do her best.

At 107 years young, Claudia is still always happy, thankful to God for giving her these years to treat others as she would like to be treated. She is also a very gracious lady, of whom Somerset is very proud to have as resident of the year in all of Sacramento and Yolo counties.

In other news at Somerset:

Sandy Medlin, a cook at Somerset, entered her cookies and jelly at the California State Fair and won first place for her chocolate chip cookies, second place for pomegranite jelly, and third for her sugar sprinkle cookies.

Congratulations, Sandy!

But many of those present at Thursday's meeting, held at the West Sacramento Senior Center, were more concerned with how to immediately clean up their neighborhood than they were with long-range planning.

"The general feeling we got was that people were really more interested in hearing how we are going to clean it up in the short run," said Roberts. "They wanted to see weeds cut down, sidewalks built, and that huge hole on the Raley's property filled in."

Roberts said that there is no inherent conflict between the residents' desire to preserve their homes and the city's new Washington Specific Plan.

"This is where we have a lot of our affordable housing stock, and we don't want to get rid of that," she commented. "We heard from the public that they, also, want to keep the residential character."

Among the questions to be answered by the new plan are exactly how to preserve and encourage that "residential character" in the old township of Washington. For instance, is there a place for both single family homes and apartments in Washington's future? And should the area continue to be laid out along the "small grid" street system, or should several existing blocks be combined into "superblocks" to host larger developments?

Roberts said that the final plan -- which will be drawn up by PBR, the planning firm which spearheaded the city's Southport Framework Plan -- will include an implementation element.

In the implementation plan, PBR and city staff will detail what will be done when. And this plan could include some short-run public improvements to answer the demand for such measures by members of the public.

"Unfortunately, we had to tell the group (at Thursday's meeting) there isn't a lot of money for putting in new sidewalks and new streetlights," Roberts said.

But city staff will come up with whatever improvement ideas it feels can be funded by the city, and will schedule another community meeting for the area in a month or two, she added.

LETTERS from 5

The seniors on fixed incomes really appreciate this. They say they are treated so graciously and love being pampered.

While we're at it, how about West Sacramento Motorcycle Shop? Thanks for beautifying the corner where they are located by painting and planting trees where there was only concrete.

To all of the above, accolades and thanks. This is the true spirit of our city.

5. Your partner deals and bids One Heart, you respond One Spade, and partner bids Three Diamonds. What would you bid?

6. Your left-hand opponent bids One Club and your right-hand opponent bids One Spade. What would you bid?

1. One Club. Despite your 16 points and balanced distribution, which suggest opening one notrump, it is better to start with a suit bid. As usual, with equal length in clubs and spades, you choose the lower suit in order to conserve bidding space. Basically, the notrump bid is rejected because you have two unguarded suits.

2. One spade. You're sure of game, but that doesn't mean you should bid two spades to show it. A jump-shift would indicate a probable slam, and your values are simply not good enough for that. Change a heart into a spade and you'd then have an acceptable two spade bid. One spade is 100 percent forcing and you plan to bid strongly later on.

3. Double. This indicates opening bid values and support for spades and clubs, the two unbid suits. It would be wrong to bid one spade, which would imply greater spade length and less in high cards.

4. Redouble. This shows 10 or more points. You plan either to get to game or to double the opponents for penalty.

5. Four clubs. A small slam is already certain, since partner's jump-shift shows at least 19 points, including high cards and distribution. You hope to arrive at grand slam. Four clubs is a waiting bid which gives partner a chance to further describe the nature of his jump-shift. Your next move will depend on what he does over four clubs.

6. Pass. The value of a hand changes as the bidding progresses. Before the bidding started, you had a good chance of finding partner with spade or club support, but that hope is now largely dissipated. Your best strategy now is to pass and hope the opponents climb too high.
